COSMIC RAIDERS

Your mission is to go where no other video game player has gone before: the alien Larkin sector. The evil Larkins have captured energy stars--your sole source of energy--from your galaxy. To get them back, you will have to survive waves of attacking kamikaze ships, fighters, command ships, meteorites, and many other unusual vehicles and objects.

That's the basic scenario for a new video game cartridge from Astrocade, COSMIC RAIDERS. COSMIC RAIDERS gives you the feeling of actually flying through space. The surprisingly detailed images of alien spaceships and other targets adds to the feeling. So does the radar, which lets you observe what's happening in your sector of the universe. COSMIC RAIDERS is better than anything you've played in a coin-op arcade...and it doesn't take quarters!

COSMIC RAIDERS plays only on the Astrocade video game. It will be available from Astrocade dealers in Fall 1982, priced at $34.95.
